Footloose was first a movie, then a stage musical. The 1998 musical was adapted from the 1984 movie. The film screenplay was written by Dean Pitchford and he adapted it for the musical including some additional songs and organising more chorus involvement similar to other musicals. The music is 1980s which may provoke some 'good old memories' among our parents. As well as the title song it contains some songs that were in 'top 10 charts' in the 1980s, including Holding Out For A Hero and Almost Paradise.

Footloose tells the story of Ren McCormack who moved from Chicago to a small country town called Bomont where dancing of any kind was forbidden by law. Naturally, he has difficulty coping with the repressive atmosphere of the town and is judged a troublemaker. The town is basically ruled by the Reverend Moore, but as we see in the story, Ren not only woos the Reverend's daughter but also brings a major change to the town and to the attitude of the Reverend.

The musical was first performed on Broadway in 1998 opening at the Richard Rogers Theatre and running for 709 performances. It was produced in London at the Novello Theatre in 2006 and at the Princess Theatre in Melbourne in 2003. Like last year it was not a Broadway classic but while reception to it was critical, it was agreed that the music and the talented cast made it very entertaining. We hope to do the same. We have a talented and enthusiastic cast, an equally talented show band and a great team of helpers. Do come along and enjoy the talents of some amazing young people.
